Jett and White Claim They are Innocent Men.

Deny They Fired the Fatal Shot—A Great Conflict in the Testimony.

PROSECUTION CORROBORATED

Cynthiana, Ky., August 4.—In the case of the commonwealth vs Jett and White, on trial for the murder of James B. Marcum on May 4, Bruce Little, a special bailiff of the Breathitt county circuit court during the first trial of Jett at Jackson, testified that he and several men with soldiers captured Tom White after an eighteen mile ride over the mountains at 4 o'clock in the morning.

On the convening of the court yesterday afternoon, Curtis Jett, one of the defendants, was placed on the stand and interrogated by Judge James Black of his counsel. He said he was friendly to J. B. Marcum, and with the exception of a few words with him some four years ago they had always been friends. He corroborated Barney Schiff, who testified for the prosecution that Jett was talking to Joe Moore and himself before the killing. Jett said that after the shots were fired he walked into the courthouse and looked about, but seeing nothing returned by the side door, the way he came, and went across the street and that he did not aid in helping Marcum, who was then dying and around whose body others were rushing to give aid. Jett said he saw Ewen running around the court house. He, a few minutes after this, saw Tom White on the street, and with him went down town to a place near the depot, where they crossed the river and visited his grandmother Hargis, mother of Judge Hargis, and there had dinner. He said he met Mrs. Mary Johnson, who asked him if he had killed her brother; he told her that he did not, but that they would accuse him of it. He and White both came back that evening to town and went to Free man's saloon and there called for beer and, having none, they left. Before he left town that morning he bought a bottle of whiskey at Goodloe Combs' and took a part of it to his grandmother. Jett's testimony corroborated other witnesses who have testified for the prosecution as to his actions on that fateful day. He denies having conversations with witnesses who declared on the witness stand he had spoken to them about the murder of Marcum. He gave a full account of his actions up to the time of his arrest. The defendant showed his right hand to the jury, upon which two joints of the ring finger were taken off a few weeks before the shooting by working with sawlogs.

The main feature of the day was the cross-examination by Tom Marcum of Thomas White, who was next placed on the stand by the defense. Marcum is one of the attorneys for the prosecution. He is a brother of the dead and resides at Muncie, I. T. White came from a place eighteen miles from Jackson looking for work, according to his testimony, and did not get it, although he had tried for two days. His testimony corroborated several other witnesses for the prosecution who said that he had gone into the side door of the court house and had come out the front door.

This was Ewen's testimony and agreed with that of Miss Clarke and Miss Rawlings, who testified Saturday. Ewen said that White turned and leered at Marcum as he came from the court house, and White did not deny that he turned and looked at Marcum as he passed out the front door. His testimony corroborated Mrs. Horde, another sister of Marcum's, who said that he and Curt Jett came into her house on Sunday afternoon looking for her brother, only that White said that Jett was not the person with him at that time. White says after dinner the day Marcum was killed he left Jett at his grandmother's, while Jett says that both came to town together. He says that he was looking for Callahan immediately

FIGHT FOR CONTINUANCE.

Georgetown, Ky., August 4.—The defense in the Caleb Powers case, which was called again today, is making a strong fight for a continuance.

The state called about 50 witnesses. Among the witnesses is Frank Cecil, of Bell county, a star witness in the last Jim Howard trial. He now hails from Oskaloosa, Kas.

Among the defense witnesses are about thirty who have never taken the stand before in this case. Fully a dozen of them were defense witnesses in the last trial of James Howard.

Many defense witnesses were absent and on this are based affidavits for a continuance.

before the shot was fired, and that was his reason for going into the courthouse. Miss Clarke on Saturday testified that she saw Sheriff Callahan in front of Hargis' store, immediately in front of the courthouse, sitting in a rocking chair until after the shots were fired, when he sprang to a window with a revolver in his hand.

The defense is still today engaged in giving its evidence in the case.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson Has Discovered That Pennants Induce Sleep. Have We Found the Scientific Reason for the Somnolent Policemen?

CARDINAL SARTO, PIUS X.

A New Pope Was Chosen This Morning on the Seventh Ballot.

Rome, August 4.—On the seventh ballot, after three full days of balloting, Cardinal Sarto, Patriarch of Venice, was this morning elected pope, and takes the name of Pius X. The pope has the privilege of choosing his own name, and this is the one chosen by Cardinal Sarto.

The election came as a surprise as well as a relief. The members of the conclave had been shut up without any communication whatever with the outside world.

The faculty of both ballots taken yesterday was evidenced the smoke which arose from the Sistine Chapel. This mute signal was watched by another large crowd which party filled the square of San Pietro and numbered about 15,000 persons. Great disappointment was manifested, and when the little puff of smoke appeared there were loud cries, not only of disappointment but even of derision.

Rome had become extremely impatient over the delay in the selection of the new pope. Yesterday practically the only news which came from the Sistine Chapel was that of the extremely grave illness of Cardinal Herrero. It is presumed, however, that the other aged cardinals also suffered from their prolonged incarceration and the intense heat.

The Osservatore Romano, the organ of the vatican, officially announces that Cardinal Herrero Espinosa being gravely ill, has received the last communion. Mgr Boniface Marin, the vicar-general of his archdiocese, Valencia, was admitted to the conclave, the door being opened for that purpose with all the prescribed precautions. Outside were the governor and the marshal of the conclave, assisted by captains of the guard. The apostolic protonotaries and the sons of Prince Chigi acted as witnesses. Inside the door when it was opened were Mgr Merry Del Val, secretary of the consistorial congregation; Mgr Roggi, prefect of ceremonies; and Mgr Marzolini. The record of the admittance of Mgr Marin was officially recorded in a formal document, which will be placed in the archives.

The correspondent of the Associated Press visited the inside of the vatican yesterday and found that all around the precincts of the conclave the guard had been doubled, and wherever there was the slightest possibility of communication with the conclave the Swiss guards, gendarmes and palatine guards watched together. The antagonism existing between those bodies is the best guarantee that nothing underhanded would be allowed. Besides the captains of the conclave in their cocked hats and uniforms embroidered

BASELY SLANDERED BIDS WERE OPENED

How the Kentucky Editors Were Victimized.

They Found Everything Closed Tight in One Place They Visited.

FEW INCIDENTS OF THE TRIP

The Kentucky editors and their friends who are just back from their northern jaunt report a most delightful time. There was one incident that marked their stay in a pretty Canadian place, however, which they did not relish. They thought their reception was rather chilly when they reached Moskoga Lake, in Canada, in the heart of some of the most beautiful scenery. Nobody seemed a bit glad to see them, and everybody seemed intent on avoiding them.

They desired to have a ball that night, but found everything closed tight. The saloons were dark, billiard halls closed, and the lights in the hotel itself were put out. The proprietor of the hotel did not want them to stop there, and apparently made no effort to conceal the fact.

The Kentucky crowd didn't know what to make of it until the next day, when they learned the truth. A drummer from the states thought he would have some fun at the expense of the Kentucky quill drivers, and before they arrived told the proprietor of the hotel, and incidentally everybody else in the town, that the Kentuckians were a nice looking lot to look at, and were all right so long as they were kept away from "fire water." The minute they began imbibing, however, they got "bad," and everyone of them carried a pistol.

Owing to the Kentucky feud troubles reported all over the country, the people were easily led to believe what they had heard, and soon after dark began to close everything up and seclude themselves in their homes. The saloons, as a precaution, were shut tight, and good care was taken to see that no alcoholic beverages of any description were left where they would be accessible to the modern "wild men of Borneo." The joke struck the editors as being somewhat funny, but they would like to tell that drummer a few things.

But, without, the editors tell tales of a merry outing and pronounce the trip one of the best and most instructive they have ever taken. They visited Quebec. There they went to the Falls of Montmorency, whose height is 100 feet above that of Niagara Falls. Montreal, the most beautiful residence city in North America, was visited, and the editors were given a hearty reception by the citizens. From there they went to Toronto, where hospitality was lavished upon them equally as good cheer.

At Portland, Me., the editors were elegantly entertained by Colonel Dow, editor of the Portland Express, who dined them on clams and lobsters. At Battle Creek, Mich., they spent many happy hours, and had the thrilling experience of shooting the rapids of the St. Lawrence.

Colonel Harry Sommers, who was much in evidence during the trip, says that the ladies of the party received compliments wherever they went and won the admiration of all. Colonel Sommers says they deserved the praise, as they possessed the beauty that makes Kentucky women famous and formed the prettiest lot of women on any Kentucky Press association trip.

Mr. Paul Moore, president of the association, presented every woman on the trip with a handsome bouquet of flowers through Colonel Sommers, Mr. Moore not being able to make the trip.

County Will Again be Unable to Refund Bonds.

The Rate of Interest Offered Was Not Satisfactory.

THE SECOND FUTILE ATTEMPT

Justice R. J. Barber, Jesse Young, J. H. Burnett and County Attorney Eugene Graves, a committee from fiscal court, met this afternoon at the county court house and opened bids for the $100,000 worth of county bonds desired to be refunded at a lower rate of interest.

There were several firms interested in the bond issue and the following is a list of the bids made by each firm. W. J. Hays and Sons, Cleveland, O., 5 per cent; Cincinnati Trust Co., 4 3/4; Seagood-Mayer & Co., Cincinnati, 4 6/10, and Weil-Roth Co., Cincinnati, 4 1/2, the lowest.

The fiscal court passed an order restricting the committee to 3 1/2 per cent and representatives of the bidders stated in argument with the committee that this was impossible during the present state of the money market.

The bids were rejected again. This is the second time the county has had to reject the bids because the rate of interest to be paid by the county was deemed too large.

WARRANTS MISSING

Bogus Papers Left in Place of the Gambling Cases.

New Warrants Will be Issued in the Cases.

The warrants in the cases against alleged local gamblers for setting up games are missing from Justice Jesse Young's court. They were last seen lying on a table and today bogus papers closely resembling on the exterior the warrants were found in their place.

The supposition is that it was expected the warrants would not be missed today. As the affidavits on which they were issued are still in possession of Justice Young, however, there will be no trouble in issuing new warrants.

A FUNNY SIGHT

A WRECK BROKE UP THE RE-VIVAL.

A wreck on the Evansville district of the Illinois Central is thus described in the Courier-Journal:
"I saw a funny thing in a railroad wreck between Henderson and Princeton this week," said Mr. J. C. Osborn of Jackson, Miss., last night during a conversation in the lobby of the Fifth Avenue hotel. "An old negro preacher, about six feet tall and large and fat, was preaching a sermon in the front part of one of the coaches. He had about twenty negroes for a congregation and with a bible in one hand was laying down the holy law to them with great force and vehemence. Suddenly right in the midst of a most impassioned appeal there was the crash of a head-on collision. The preacher forgot his sermon, his hammer and everything else and made a wild rush for the rear door. I was pinned to the window by a finger which was caught, but in spite of the pain I had to laugh at the old man. In his frantic haste to get out he tripped and fell. His congregation was close behind him and they paid no attention to their fallen leader, but went over him as if he was a hurdle. Most of them jumped over him, but one big fat sister could not make it and she sat down squarely in the middle of the shoulders of the preacher. In some way her broad body became wedged in the aisle and the old man almost smothered before we could get the woman off his head."

WON FOUR STRAIGHTS.

The Henderson club, which is making a record run from the top to the bottom, left last night after being defeated four straight games by Paducah. If Henderson continues to lose and Paducah to win, we will soon be in third place. Yesterday's game was quite exciting. Lloyd was in the box the first two innings but "Lucky" Wilson was substituted. The Hens didn't make a single run after "Red" began to bend them. He used his "noodle." When a batter bit at low balls "Red" threw him one just right for a glancing lick, which resulted in a little pop that was easily nailed. The Henderson lead was something of a tough proposition but gradually the Indians did the work until in the third inning O'Connor's three bagger scored Long and O'Connor himself scored on Wilson's hit tying the tally. In the tenth inning Ray singled and stole second and was brought in by LeCompte's double. The boys all did good work. Potts got sick in the fourth inning and Manager Gage had to take his place. The visitors played a good game, Copeland and Warner leading with the willow. Copeland's work at short was of the sensational order.

ECHOES FROM THE GRAVE.

The Spokane Review, of Spokane, Washington, has the following account of a ball game there in which "Pete" Dowling, the former Paducah south-paw made his usual showing. It is as follows:
"Gilt-edged ball, married in the ninth by a comedy of errors, the kind of pitching that you read about, and fast swinging of the war clubs, were the features of the game yesterday between Butte and the Indians. Butte is now in second place. Dowling and Dammann battled for supremacy during the nine innings. Pete Dowling is the top of the strawberry box over in Butte. He had several of the Indians badly guessing as to whether his bonds were coming or going. Ten of the warriors slashed the air in an effort to locate his puzzles. But still Dowling's slants were swatted hard and often enough. The Indians tapped the curves of the Butte twirler for 11 safe ones.
"Huelsman was a nightmare to the wanderers from the Smoky City. A three bagger, a two bagger and a single were netted by the big club swinger of the Indians. Klopff found the curves of the slabster from Montana for a brace of doubles and a single. Klopff's smashes came at opportune moments and aided the redskins materially in scoring. Heine Delsel was on deck with the willow and planted the leather out in the field for a three sacker and two singles. Hendricks solved the mysteries of Dowling for two hits. The rest of the Indian tribe were in the dark as regards the location of Dowling's teasers.
"Dammann pitched a good game and kept his hits well scattered. In the ninth inning with three men on bases and no one out, Dammann caused two of the visitors to swat the air and made an easy out of Kane. Dammann had five of the Miners' scalps dangling from his belt at the close of the game. McKevitt pounded on a home run over the left field fence in the sixth inning. Besides this the Indian medicine man was negotiated safely nine times.

DOPE.

Beuke is playing a star game at first.

Yesterday's feature: Manager Gage's two assists at second.

O'Connor is all right. He makes a few errors, but look at the chances he accepts.

They rubbed it in to Manager Gage pretty hard yesterday after he made so many errors, but he didn't get mad. He didn't want to play second, but Potts got sick and there was no one else to do it.

The Henderson boys left today for Cairo, where they will doubtless give up three games to the sluggers. They have now lost nine straight games. If Paducah can win from Jackson she will soon be third.

Forrest Morris, one of the most popular and best members of the Hopkinsville team, has quit. He played short, pitched or covered any of the positions. He returns to work for Forbes' brothers, but will play with the team when it is at home.

Wilson is not necessarily "lucky." He will be pitching ball when Harris, Brookett, Freeman and other twirlers are back in the benches. He uses his head. He studies the batter and never forgets what kind of a ball he wants. The batter usually hits—but the ball falls where it will do the batter little good.

PHYSICIAN AND DRUGGISTS.

Ford & Sturgeon, a prominent drug firm at Rocky Hill Station, Ky., writes: "We were requested by Dr. G. B. Snigley to send for Herbine for the benefit of our customers. We ordered three dozen in December, and we are glad to say Herbine has given such great satisfaction that we have duplicated this order three times, and today we gave your salesman another order. We beg to say Dr. G. B. Snigley takes pleasure in recommending Herbine." 50c bottle at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

Japanese Going Ahead.

At Tokio the Japanese postal authorities are considering the advisability of purchasing motor cars for the conveyance of mails.

THE NEW SCHEDULE

New Time Card for Cairo Division About Complete.

It is Understood Accommodation Will Be Run Through to Cairo.

MINOR RAILROAD NOTES

The schedule for the Cairo extension of the Illinois Central has been about completed but nothing has been authoritatively given out relative to what trains will be run over the new road and the arrangement of the time table.

It is rumored however that trains Nos. 122, 121 and 135, the former running between Fulton and Louisville, Louisville and Fulton and the latter Hopkinsville and Paducah will be run through Paducah to and from Cairo. The trains now leaving Fulton will be started out of Cairo and instead of the Hopkinsville train having its terminal here will go on through to Fulton. Another time card will be made out for the Fulton district so that the people between Fulton and Paducah may still be accommodated as they have been.

It is probable that the train leaving Cairo in the morning will be started late enough to make connections for the accommodation trains running between Fulton and Cairo but the exact time the trains will be run on has not been definitely arranged.

Albert McNeal, colored, a brakeman for the I. C. at Memphis, fell from a car in the yards Sunday night and his left shoulder was dislocated as a result. He is now in the local I. C. hospital under treatment.

There was a derailment in the shop yards here last night. A freight car jumped the track and was slightly damaged but no one was injured. The accident caused no delays.

Mr. Finis Fields, foreman of the local I. C. wrecking crew, is ill and unable to be on duty, his many friends will regret to learn.

THE FINLEY'S TOW.

SOME OF IT WAS NEVER RECOVERED.

About three months ago the big towboat J. B. Finley passed Paducah for New Orleans with an immense tow of coal, including three barges—two square and one model—of steel rails. The entire tow ran into the bank at Hogg's Point and most, if not all of it, was sunk, and scattered along the river as far down as Troy, twenty miles below. Twenty-two coalboats and the three barges of rails went down, in from twenty to sixty feet of water. Two barges of rails were recovered and about ten barges of coal were gotten out, but one square barge of rails, about 550 tons, has never been recovered. Every effort has been made to locate it, but without success. The Fulton has tried to find it. Magnetic needles have been tried and the bed of the river diligently searched, but to no purpose. One of the barges of rails was found in sixty feet of water and recovered. Capt. Case is above Troy examining the river bottoms in the Bends, where in some places the river is sixty feet deep.

A WORM KILLER.

J. A. Montgomery, Puxico, Wayne county, Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls, who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them, which failed until I used White's Oream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them; the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Oream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

CALLED A PASTOR.

ARKANSAS MINISTER CALLED TO FULTON BAPTIST CHURCH.

Fulton, Ky., August 4—At a business meeting of the Baptists at the city hall a unanimous call was made for Rev. H. F. Vermillion of Arkadelphia, Ark., to pastorate of the local church. The Baptists will use their pretty new church next Sunday for the first time.

WORK TO BEGIN SOON

Contract for Street Paving Let to E. C. Terrell

Council Had Much Business to Consider Last Night—Aldermen Also Met.

SEWERAGE ORDINANCES PASS

The council met in regular session last night with all members present except Councilman J. G. Brooks.

Mayor Yeiser presented the agreement of Dr. C. H. Warner to care for the city fire horses at 50 cents per head per month, but Councilman Hannan's motion to advertise for bids and give other physicians a chance to secure the contract was carried.

Treasurer Krans' report was read and showed a balance of $18,824.67 on hand from June, with $25,189.24 collected last month. Disbursements amounted to $34,524.88, leaving a balance of $37,179.03 in the treasury. The report was received and filed.

Bills to the amount of $11,058.13, including $4,090 for school purposes, were allowed.

At Townsend was allowed $5 as a witness fee in the case of Lachel against the city of Paducah. The costs of the action, however, are to be charged against the plaintiff, who lost the suit.

A report from the light committee showed the expense for running the city lights during moonlight nights amounted to $67.20 per month extra, but no action was taken in the matter. This means that the lights will burn hereafter continuously.

The report of the public improvement and street committee in regard to the street improvement contract was presented. The report recommended the awarding of the contract to Contractor E. C. Terrell, who had in the only bid and whose bid was $2,248 lower than any bid previously placed.

Councilman Fowler wanted to issue $100,000 in thirty year bonds in order that the coming generations bear some of the expense, but his idea did not prevail and Mr. Terrell was awarded the work, the only member voting against him being Councilman Fowler.

The council here adjourned for ten minutes recess in order to give the board of aldermen time to meet and act on the street contract matter.

ALDERMANIC BOARD MEETS.

At a call of the roll all members were present except Aldermen Trontman, Smith and Chamblin and on vote the contract was awarded to Mr. Terrell by a unanimous vote. The board then adjourned and the council was again called in session.

The following ordinances were acted on:

Ordinance providing for the extension of the sewerage from Tennessee, between Third and Fourth streets, up an alley past Norton street. First passage given.

Ordinance for the extension of the sewers from Ninth and Tennessee to Ninth and Jones streets, then west on Jones to Tenth street. First passage given.

Ordinance increasing the health officer's salary from $200 to $600 per annum was laid on the table. The council had given this second passage, but it was killed in the upper board and later returned to the council.

The report of Fire Chief Woods was presented and received. He reported 313 plugs in good condition, showing that he had failed to visit the remainder of the 330, and was ordered to look after the total plugs more closely.

Several deeds to lots in Oak Grove were ratified.

The proposition from Mr. W. J. Smith of West Jefferson street to dedicate to the city property with which to improve Jefferson street, and also his offer to give $50 towards the work, was accepted.

The proposition from Mr. Coffin of the firm of Roberts & Co. of New York to compromise his $10,000 damage suit against the city for $3,000 was laid over until the next meeting of the finance committee.

The request for a drain pipe on Mill street was referred.

The reports of Milk and Meat Inspector Duley and Sewerage Inspector Risor were received and filed.

The liquor license of Charles Schnite, at 925 Washington street, was transferred to J. A. Thornton.

City Engineer Washington reported that it would cost $580 to place in piling on the levee front to better the wharf facilities by preventing boats landing against the buildings in high water. The report was received and filed, but no action was taken towards placing in the piling.

Solicitor Werten, to whom the matter of sidewalk improvements was referred, stated that he had been corresponding with Covington officials and found that in that city a certain percentage of the abutting property owners had to petition for sidewalks before said improvements could be made. This was done to insure the city's stand in ordering sidewalk improvements without petitions from the property owners. The report was received and filed.

The street inspector was ordered to improve Jarrett street to insure better drainage.

The matter of placing in a light at Williamson's grocery and on Powell street in Mechanicsburg was referred.

The action of the council in ordering Marshal Crow two horses to use in rounding up stray cows at night was ratified.

Clerk Patterson made a short speech relative to his agreement to repair the concrete sidewalks built by him several years ago. He stated that he had agreed to do the work, but since he entered this agreement persons had been making political capital out of it by saying that he would do nothing until after the primary and then would refuse to repair the sidewalks. He stated that he had asked concrete men and plasterers for bids to do the work, but they are all busy now. He expects to have the work started shortly and to have the work finished before several weeks.

The matter of placing in a wooden walk on West Broadway just beyond Fountain avenue to prevent possible accidents to pedestrians by being struck by buggies, the street being narrow here, was referred.

The bill for $190 for repairs to Yeiser park was held up. The city will refuse to pay it and a resolution to the county officials is being drawn up to notify the county that the city no longer wants the charge of the park and formally turning it over to the county again.

The petition for better drainage at Fifth and Court was referred for investigation.

The matter of better drainage at First and Broadway was also referred. The matter of opening street from Twelfth to Twentieth street, west of Court, was referred.

An ordinance was ordered prepared providing for grading and graveling of Clark street between Ninth and Tenth, the property which had been given the city for other privileges by the I. O. road. The deed is expected from Chicago daily and when it comes the ordinance will be acted on at once and the repairs made.

An ordinance was ordered drawn providing for the improvement to an alley between Eleventh, Twelfth, Jackson and Ohio streets.

The matter of placing lights at Twelfth and Jones streets, Fountain avenue and Harrison and Third and Jefferson, was referred.

The following board of engineer examiners was appointed to examine applicants for city engineer: Messrs. Epps, Randolph, James E. Frazier and H. U. Wallace. The law requires all candidates to be examined.

The police were ordered to keep tabs on all lights out on their beats so that the committee and council could see the improvement made in the lighting facilities.

Connellmen Greif and Himmell were appointed a committee to look into the matter of placing $250,000 bond election before the people this election for hospital, market house and other public improvements.

On motion the board adjourned.

AUGUST WEATHER.

ALL KINDS OF WEATHER PREDICTED FOR THIS MONTH.

Washington, D. C., August 4—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 30 to 4, warm wave 29 to 2, cool wave August 1 to 5.

Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 3, great central valleys 5, eastern states 7. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 6, great central valleys 8, eastern states 10.

This disturbance will belong to a period of high temperature which will include the first ten days of August. It will bring severe storms similar to those that occurred about first of July. Great heat will be experienced during the week ending August 9 and showers, bordering on that peculiar kind miscalled "cloudbursts."

This weather period centering about August 6 should be closely watched, particularly in the great southwest, including Kansas and Texas, the Missouri valley, upper Mississippi valley, the great lakes, New York, Pennsylvania and New England.

Third disturbance of August will reach Pacific coast about 9, cross west of Rockies by close of 10, great central valleys 11 to 13, eastern states 14.

Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 9, great central valleys 11, eastern states 13. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 12, great central valleys 14, eastern states 16.

Temperature of this storm wave will average about normal but a very considerable fall will occur in a very short time. This fall will be felt in the northwest about 10, upper Mississippi valley about 12, New England about 14.

Frequent showers will occur, some of them very heavy, over small areas from 6 to 14, about the latter date being quite cool, followed by a few days of hot dry weather. First half of August will average very much warmer than last half.

Frequent showers, some of them very heavy, are expected from August 17 to 27 the latter date being the center of an exceedingly cool spell of weather.

Kingston, Ontario, Canada Whig says: "In the line of weather prophecies it is ever safe to say there are others. W. T. Foster, of Washington, D. C., is fast establishing a reputation. He struck the weather in several points in June near the right spot, though it was remarkable in several respects."

DROWNING AT BROOKPORT.

MRS. M. STEVENSON'S BODY FOUND IN A CREEK.

Mrs. M. Stevenson's body was found beside Seven Mile creek, a few miles from Brookport, Massac county. Her feet were two feet in the soft mud, and her face was submerged in the water. She was about 70 years old and had started home from a neighbor's, and it is not known whether she was drowned accidentally or committed suicide.

MARRIAGE AT FULTON.

Fulton, Ky., August 4—Mr. J. H. Batts and Miss Sadie Scott, of near Beclerton, came to Fulton and were married. Mr. Walter Pittman and Miss Ruby House of near Wingo, were also married here.

ON THE HUSTLE

Is the Queen City of the Penny-rile.

Owensboro Will Demonstrate What She Can Do with a Big Attraction Like the State Fair.

The enterprising business men of Owensboro have carried their plans far enough along to make it clear that the state fair during the week of September 21 is going to be a greater success even than was experienced last year in Louisville.

They are already showing that when Owensboro bids for a big attraction success is assured the enterprise, it matters not what the nature of it may be.

This, at least, is the opinion of the directors of the state fair, who found a far-seeing, determined set of business men at Owensboro ready to take hold of every suggestion and carry it to a successful conclusion.

The following local committees have been placed in charge there:

Advisory committee—Dr. J. G. Hickman, C. W. Bransford, Lee Ray. Entertainment committee—W. G. Archer, J. W. McCulloch, L. S. Frederick.

During August about 25,000 handsome state fair posters will be hung, most of them, of course, in Western Kentucky counties.

Secretary L. B. Shropshire at the headquarters in the board of trade building, Louisville, is daily receiving scores of letters from the biggest livestock men in this state and in the United States announcing their intention to compete for the $20,000 cash prizes that will be distributed. Several new big amusement attractions will be announced in a week or two.

FRATERNITY BUILDING.

MANY OF THE OFFICES HAVE BEEN SPOKEN FOR.

The Fraternity building is nearing completion and already over half the office rooms have been spoken for but have not been formally applied for, as the applicants will have to do.

The office rooms will be among the nicest and most convenient in the city and it is thought there will be no trouble at all in securing occupants. Mr. C. E. Jennings is agent for the building and stated this morning that comparatively few had placed an application but that he had verbal applications from enough to more than half fill the buildings.

French School Children on Strike. An extraordinary strike is reported from Crezieres, near Polterea, France, the school children of the elementary school having refused to attend their classes unless their head master, M. Cail, was dismissed from his position. The children allege that they have been harshly treated by their master. They are supported by their parents, who have petitioned the government to send down an official to inquire into the affair. This the government has agreed to.

PLENTY OF IT.

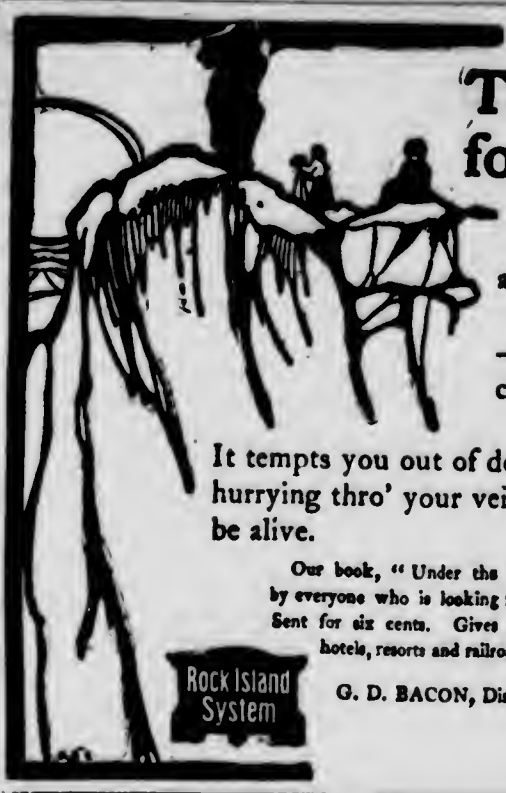

LOTS MORE PROOF LIKE THIS AND IT IS ALL FROM PADUCAH PEOPLE.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the union has sufficient proof on the following subject it is Paducah. Genuine merit is finding its reward in the hearty endorsement of local citizens. When people right here at home, friends and neighbors of our readers, give a statement like the following for publication, it is proof convincing for the most skeptical. Read this testimony:

Mrs. Charles Williams, of 700 Terrell street, says: "Despite the use of plasters and home remedies my back ached almost continually, and as my husband who is employed by the Singer Sewing Machine Co., on Third street, continually complained of his, we were both constantly on the outlook for some means to check or eradicate the case. Reading one night about Doan's Kidney Pills induced us to get that remedy at DuBois & Co's drug store and take a course of the treatment. Two boxes thoroughly proved that the preparation acts up to the representations made for it."

How to Obtain a Lovely

COMPLEXION Clear and Beautiful

It is every woman's duty to be as youthful and good looking as possible, and there is nothing which adds more beauty than a lovely complexion, and there is no remedy which will restore the complexion and give one that youthful appearance like Mme. A. Ruppert's World Renowned Face Bleach. This grand remedy clears the skin of every discoloration, and impurity, including pimples, freckles, moth patches, brown spots, liver marks, comedones, flesh-worms, blackheads, oiliness, sallowness, mudlues and skin diseases. It accomplishes these wonderful effects by drawing the impurities and discolorations to the surface of the skin and then removing these blemishes by gradually scaling off a slight surface of the outer scurf. It does this in so natural a manner as to be entirely harmless to the most delicate complexion, and, having this action, it cannot fail to produce excellent effects.

Most marvelous results are obtained when Face Bleach is used according to my new Special Directions in conjunction with my Egyptian Balm, which nourishes and feeds the tissues and glands of the skin, and adds the finishing touch which refines, purifies and preserves the skin in its pristine splendor, giving it the glow of youth.

Now, in order that every lady reader of this paper may obtain the highest possible effect from the use of my preparations, I will make the following stupendous offer to all callers at the below address. "IF YOU CAN'T PAY THE PRICE, MOVE OUT."

Every city, especially when an effort is being made to push it to the front, has to first squelch the unprogressive element—those who don't care anything about the city, but seek only to spend as little money as possible both for taxes and public improvements. There is always a large class of this kind of citizens. They take no interest in the advancement of the city, and ask only to hold onto their money. They care nothing for beauty, attractiveness or utility. They think the sanitation is good enough so long as there is an alley or gutter in which to throw their refuse, and that any kind of old street will do so long as they themselves have no use for it. The welfare, convenience and prosperity of their fellow citizens do not concern them, and they are willing to put any obstacle in their way if they think it will save them a few dollars. Yes, this element is found in every city, and it is noticed that there is a pretty good chunk of it in St. Louis. The object in here is to get to the fact, however, that to some of these unprogressive people who try to throw cold water on every plan and project for improvement that is made. It will apply well in Paducah. He declared:

"If any resident of Lindell boulevard cannot stand the expense of these improvements he is living under false pretenses. He is living beyond his means and should sell out and move away."

"There are hundreds of thousands of citizens now living on paved streets and enduring the noise and the smell without a grumble. I am no better than they and will not complain, no matter what Lindell boulevard is paved with."

IF IT WILL SAVE MONEY, COMPROMISE.

Several years ago a Democratic city council in Paducah attempted to repudiate a bond issued of $100,000 on a technicality. Innocent purchasers of the bonds would have had to suffer had not federal court interfered to enforce a payment of the city's honest debts, which action was indorsed by every honest man in Paducah. The city, however, when the question first came up, contracted to refund these bonds, and a New York firm was awarded the contract. The city was to issue new bonds at a less rate of interest, secure the money for them from the New York firm, and then pay the money over to the holders of the old bonds. But the city after making every arrangement to do this, decided on repudiation, and left the New York firm in the lurch. This company, it is claimed, had already contracted to resell the bonds at a profit of $10,000, and the city by its own action refusing to refund, not only prevented the New York firm from carrying out its own contract, but resulted in considerable loss in expenses, costs, etc., to it. The company sued for $10,000 damages for breach of contract, and the suit is still pending in federal court. In order to end the matter the company now offers to compromise for $3,000. The city has the matter under advisement. It should do the most sensible thing possible, and if there is any probability of having to pay the entire amount sued for, a compromise should be effected for $3,000, and thus save the taxpayers $7,000. The council once had a chance to compromise the same case for less than $600, but refused.

China, according to reports, is drifting back to the old rut under the skillful management of the empress dowager. It is unalterably opposed to reform and there is no apparent reason why the Chinese should not be allowed to live and govern as they see fit. "Every person to his taste," is the substance of a very good principle of philosophy, and whenever we undertake to overthrow it, trouble begins.

A great deal is being read about the late Gen. Cassius M. Clay's will, and it seems he left half a dozen or more. It is quite likely, however, that because of his mental condition any will he may have left can be easily knocked out in the courts.

ELECTED MANAGER.

MR. PAT LALLY TAKES CHARGE OF THE PADUCAH LAUNDRY.

A meeting was last evening held by the directors of the Paducah Laundry Co. at Fifth and Jefferson streets, and Mr. Pat Lally, who purchased the stock of the Gridleys, was chosen general manager to succeed Mr. Gridley. He took charge today. Mr. Gridley, it is understood, may leave Paducah. Mr. Lally is one of the best known and most popular young men in Paducah and will no doubt do well in his new position.

Mr. George Johnston, a well known drummer for the Wolfe Shoe Co., has resigned to accept a position with the new Conrad-Rawls company of Louisville, and recently organized by Mr. Matt Rawls of Paducah.

Mr. Louis Rutter of Carrville, Livingston county, formerly clerk at the New Richmond, has arrived to accept a clerkship at Hotel Lagomarsino.

Mr. L. P. Loney of Owensboro, a gauger newly assigned to this territory, is here to begin his duties.

CARDINAL SARTO, PIUS X.

with gild lace, assisted by the valets of Prince Chigi, the marshal of the conclave, in gorgeous liveries, was constantly on the alert.

The piazza of St. Peter's today when the news came bore the usual appearance of the past days. Italian soldiers occupied two colonnades and stood about in groups vainly trying to keep in the shade, the sun being scorching hot. A new note to the scene was given by a caravan of penitents from the surrounding province, composed of men, women and children, in costume, who evidently came to Rome for the pope's blessing. The women wore bright red skirts, white bodices with colored corsets outside, spotless white handkerchiefs on their heads and sandals laced with leathern thongs to the knee. The men were less gorgeous in velvet knee breeches with gold buttons. The group camped in the shadow of the obelisk, eating watermelon and making so brilliant a picture that all on the piazza, especially foreigners, feasted their eyes on the characteristic scene.

Joseph Sarto, the new pope, who was Patriarch of Venice, was born in Riese, diocese of Treviso, in 1835. His career has been that of a parish priest, spent almost wholly in the north of Italy. Sarto was made patriarch in 1891 and proclaimed a cardinal in 1893. He is a great preacher and fairly well known as a writer. The church interests of Venice have prospered under his control.

Of him the late Pope Leo said April 19, 1903, to Dom Perosi, priest composer of Rome, when the priest made him a visit: "Hold him very dear Perosi, as in the future he may be able to do much for you. We firmly believe he will be our successor."

PEATHS IN GRAVES.

WENT TO 100 TODAY.

The thermometer at Observer Bormann's office this afternoon at 2 o'clock registered 100 in the shade, the warmest for several days.

Strenuous Demands of Society.

Numerous cases of nervous breakdown among women in New York and Washington, including the wives of the president and the attorney general, call attention to the overtaxed life not only of wealthy women, but of well-to-do. If there were pleasure in this dreary round called "gay" there would be more excuse for it. But there is none. The same people meet day after day, compare notes of the last ball or dinner and drearily speculate upon the next, exhibit their jewels and gowns and yearn for Lent, which will be a travesty upon its origin, and merely a period of rest and preparation for new toils that come to nothing.

HABITS OF ECONOMY

MAN AND WOMAN INDULGE IN USELESS ARGUMENT.

Thrillless Tricks of Both Sexes Discussed in Detail—Dispute Ends with Triumphant Female Settling Out for Bargain Sale.

Economy was under discussion. "A woman knows how to economize much better than a man does," she said, decidedly.

The man looked skeptical, but said no was willing to be convinced by proofs.

"Now, see here, when you have a bit of a headache you rush out to the drug store and get the clerk to give you a powder," she said. "The next time you have a headache you do the same thing, and you spend a surprisingly large amount of money in this way."

"Well, what would you have me do?" asked the man. "Stand the headache, I suppose, and get cross and irritable."

"No, my dear man, I certainly would not, for when a man makes up his mind to stand his headache there's no living in the same county with him. But I would have you go out and buy a dozen powders or so, and so have them on hand. Buying them in a large quantity is much less expensive than buying them in dribbles."

"Now another way in which a man is wasteful. He does not look after his laundry well, suddenly finds himself without clean collars or a clean shirt, and goes out and buys more. As a matter of fact, he has plenty on hand and does not need any more, but through his carelessness he ties his money up in shirts and collars when it is positively necessary that he have a few cravats."

"Then there's the matter of tobacco—"

"Oh, say, no fair," said the man. "You must cut that out, you know. A man has to smoke."

"All right," said the woman, cheerfully. "But there's the habit of treating. Half the time you don't want to treat and the other fellow does not want to have you treat, but neither of you has the courage to cut it out. So you go on spending your money for something you do not enjoy yourself, and that is something of a bore to the other fellow."

The man looked a bit rueful and acquiesced for the first time. "There's something in that," he said.

"And your stockings. So soon as a hole comes in them you throw them away. That's fearfully expensive. What if you were a bachelor; there are plenty of professional menders nowadays, and you could get the work done easily enough."

"Don't want to bother with it," said the man, a trifle grumpily.

The woman went calmly on. "Shaves are another expense. Why don't you shave yourself?"

"Cause I'd have to spend so much money in courtplaster if I did," said the man, quickly.

"Now, these are only a few of the ways in which you waste money," the woman continued. "I have convinced you that you don't know how to economize."

"How about the woman who buys a frugal luncheon of soup and rolls and then blows a lot in for ice cream and fluffy duff?" asked the man. "How about woman's habit of buying a thing just because it is a bargain, when she has no possible use for it? How about her going to the hairdresser for a shampoo when she can do it very easily herself? How about the candy habit, and the visit of the doctor after a candy jag? How—"

"Convince a man against his will and he's of the same opinion still," chanted the woman, and left to attend the Friday bargain sale.—New York Times.

Bored With.

"Yes," said the young wife, "I'm tired and I had some words this morning, and I can't deny that he got the best of it." "That will never do," returned the experienced neighbor. "You can't afford to start in married life that way." "I know it," answered the young wife. "I've thought it all over, and when he comes home to-night I'm going to bring him to terms so quick that he'll hardly know what's happened." "That's right, my dear. Show some spirit. What are you going to do?" "I'm going to bring up the subject again and then cry."—Stray Stories.

Hives of the World.

The largest hive farm in the world is said to be near Becton, Canada. It covers four acres, and the owner in a favorable year secures not less than 75,000 pounds of honey from 19,000,000 working bees. Greece has 30,000 hives, Denmark 90,000; the Netherlands, 240,000; France, 950,000; Germany, 1,450,000; Austria, 558,000. The United States has 2,800,000, which produce 61,000,000 pounds of honey annually. The largest weight of honey that has ever been taken in a single season from one hive was 1,000 pounds, in Texas.

States in an Argument.

"South Carolina," observes the Nashville American, "always was an obstreperous and impudent little state. It fired the first gun in a war for which it furnished less than half as many soldiers as Tennessee supplied." To which the Charleston News and Courier replies: "It is largely due to the fact of South Carolina's having been an 'obstreperous and impudent little state' in the early history of the country that Tennessee or any territory beyond it ever became any kind of state. Never forget that." At this stage of the controversy South Carolina is a little ahead.

Municipal Muddles Multiply.

Discussing the all absorbing topic of local government a well known business man recently remarked: "Our city government for the past two years has been a sad commentary on the judgment and intelligence of our citizens, and it is destined to go to record for future ages, as the muddle administration." It is superfluous to mention the many muddles we have had, the people remember them all. They also recollect who "paid the fiddler."

The latest, and perhaps one of the most provoking, is the street muddle. This has been a "barnum question" at the city hall for nearly a year, much "cloquence" has been wasted. The fall season is almost upon us and yet nothing is accomplished. Indeed, it is folly to expect any real public enterprise under the present regime. This brick street talk seems to have been merely a campaign scheme to catch the unwary voter when the "Id. of November" come around. Be that as it may, the public interest will be materially benefited if these so-called public improvements, better named public patch-work, are abandoned altogether.

A few pieces of brick streets, which the general public seldom use, trimmed as it were with piebald pavements, producing a "distracting" variegated effect, similar to a succession of crazy quilts, hardly deserve the name of public improvements.

Beautiful Broadway, our city's "spinal column" and chief artery of trade and travel, with its numerous handsome buildings and elegant homes, is totally neglected. Any modern street improvements which do not include this picturesque thoroughfare suggests a rendition of Hamlet with the prince of Denmark omitted from the cast.

Here we ventured to state that our friend was too severe in some of his remarks, knowing as we do that there are some clever, capable and enterprising men in the local boards. "Yes," he replied, "there are a few trustworthy, competent men in all the local boards, but they are a helpless minority. The in-jury constitutes a regular political job lot, who endeavor to control public affairs for their own personal advancement." Growing warmer, here, our friend's indignation broke loose in crude rhymes, said he. "The trouble at the city hall, among other things, is this:

"Some are too young, others too old; some are too timid, some are too bold; some are too warm and others too cold. One must 'orate' and another must 'soid'; one is for this, and one against that, while this honor's for everything—and always stands 'pat.' A fearless executive—strong for progression—always a candidate, a mayor by profession—looks puritanical, strict silence employs—but from now till November stands in with the 'boys.'"

We could endure no more of this, so we left our friend to tell his troubles to some one else. We will now proceed to give reading matter of real financial interest to everybody. Our semi-annual clearing sale begins tomorrow and continues the entire week.

WAITED 30 YEARS

FOR THE PROPER FOOD.

A man who was a semi-invalid for thirty years got well in about a month when he found the right food. He says: "When I was 19 years of age I had a severe attack of typhoid fever, and after almost starving to death I was left in a pitiable condition."

"My nervous system was so shattered that I had to walk with a cane for six months after I got on my feet and my stomach was terribly distended. This was thirty years ago and since that time I have never known health, although I had tried doctor after doctor, until six months ago I saw an article about Grape-Nuts that impressed me so I thought I would try it."

"So I gave Grape-Nuts a trial, more as something to eat than with any idea it would help me. My improvement commenced immediately and has kept right up until now I have used seven packages and I feel like another person. I am in better health than I have been since boyhood and am strong and contented. Grape-Nuts food helped me after everything else failed and I look on this as an evidence of the great power of proper food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

INJUNCTION CASE HEARD.

The suit of I. D. Wilcox against Gilbert & Arenz, commission brokers, to cancel a $6,000 note, and restrain the defendants from disposing of 124 shares of Paducah Water company stock given as collateral, came up before Judge Husbands in circuit court this morning. The defendants replied to the petition that they had transferred the note with its collateral security to the Citizens' Savings bank before the suit was filed, whereupon the attorneys for the plaintiff were allowed to amend the petition and make the Citizens' Savings bank a party to the suit. A temporary restraining order was then made in the case, which prevents any further disposition of the note and collateral until the final trial to cancel the note and recover the collateral, comes up in October.

Mrs. Helen Westlake, of Campbell street, was this morning acquitted on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, before Judge Sanders. Quite a number of witnesses were called to testify, but they did not know anything of an incriminating nature. Secretary Hanna, of the Y. M. C. A., was one of them, but he did not know anything. One witness drank beer there, but it was bought at a saloon and sent in. There were only two women at the house, Mrs. Westlake and another.

The defendant did not have to introduce any evidence. The charge was dismissed on the evidence of the prosecution, and the court stated that two women could not run a disorderly house in the meaning of the law.

Houston Wilkerson, white, was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness and later the fine was suspended.

Will Jolly and Homer Williams, colored, the former who stuck a fork in the latter, were arraigned on a breach of the peace charge and the warrant for this offense dismissed. Jolly was held over for malicious wounding with intent to kill, bail $100.

Oscar Wright, white, was dismissed of the charge of grand larceny and sentenced to 30 days in city jail for stealing $5.50 from a man named Stephenson at the Lo-Bloom hotel.

J. J. Earnhart was dismissed on a breach of the peace charge, and an appeal was taken by the prosecution. Attorney Ross sat as a special judge in the case, Judge Sanders declining to try it. Another case against the defendant for using insulting language was continued until Monday. The trouble about which he was tried today occurred on the market and Earnhart was arrested by Officer Joe Woods, who had to strike him a time or two. The evidence showed there was a large crowd on hand at the market, as usual, but there was no evidence to show that Earnhart attracted it.

Magazine Notes

The August 10 Story Book is now on the stands. A particularly smart list of writers appears this month, the most conspicuous names being George Aile, Martha McEnloch Williams, H. S. Canfield, William Hamilton Osborne and Edgar Walton Cooley. The stories are all decidedly clever—not a slow one in the issue.

The fiction number of McClure's for August is a triumph of editorial selection, and a clear case of the survival of the exceptionally fit. The beautiful cover showing a still lake landscape viewed from a cool white portico of marble pillars is an invitation not to be resisted. The leader is a delightful little story of child life by May Kelsey Champion. "The Method of Charles Stuart," with illustrations in color by Jessie Wilcox Smith, of exquisite charm and feeling. Then follows an altogether novel brace of love stories by Mary R. S. Andrews, called "Two Sides of a Street."

The Cosmopolitan for August is particularly noteworthy from three different aspects: First, every article is not only interesting in subject but entertaining in style; second, it is a Midsummer fiction number, replete with brilliant short stories of love and adventure; third, its articles are profusely and finely illustrated. "Dramatic Schools," by David Belasco; an article on the meat packing industry; Frank Moss's "The Tragedy of Policy in New York;" "Shakespeare in Modern Settings," and "Romances of the World's Great Mines—The Klondike," all are illustrated with splendid photographs, and written in an entertaining way.

Lippincott's contains for August: The Green Dragon, complete novel, Elizabeth Due; The Swimmer, Fullerton L. Waldo; Father Kneipp and His Cure, Mand Howe; Wood Voices, Robert Gilbert Welsh; The Seventeenth of August, 1844, Marion Harland; The Siren, Churchill Williams; At the Close of Day, Ingram Crockett; The Man with the Black Spectacles, William Le Quenx; Onpud in the Horse Camp, Edward Boltwood; Song for a Summer Twilight, Clinton Scollard; For A' That, Clinton Dangerfield; The Offending Eye, Ella Middleton Tybout; The Vagabond Road, Dora Read Goodale; Another Man's Exonates, E. Spence de Pae; Walnuts and Wine.

The Midsummer Holiday Century is characterized by articles on unknown regions, by a varied personal interest and by an appeal to artistic taste both in color-work and in black and white. The personal articles comprise letters of Walter Scott, "Chapters from a Diplomatic Life," by Andrew D. White and "Wesley's Days of Triumph," The fiction includes "The Yellow Van," Richard Whiteing's novel, a short tale by David Gray, "Overhauling the Politicians," a humorous sketch of the Maine coast by George S. Wasson; "Chills," a tale of a Missouri overflow by R. E. Young; "To Her Who Loved Him Best of All" by Cyrus Townsend Brady—and "The Tramp," a curious "Pa Gladden" story by Elizabeth Cherry Waltz.

WATCH FOR A CHILL.
However slight at this time of the year and in this climate, it is the forerunner of malaria. A disposition to yawn and an all-tired-out feeling even comes before the chill. Hereby, by its prompt stimulative action on the liver, drives the malarial germs out of the system, purifies the blood, tones up the system and restores health. 50c at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

Canada's Timber Lands.
The impression that British North America is covered with valuable timber is fallacious. Black walnut, red cedar and white oak are not found north of Toronto. A line drawn from the city of Quebec to Sault Ste Marie will designate the northern limit of beech, elm and birch. The north shore of Lake Superior will mark the northern boundary of sugar hard maple.

CURED PARALYSIS.
W. S. Baily, P. O. True, Texas, writes: "My wife had been suffering five years with paralysis in her arm, when I was persuaded to use Ballard's Snow Liniment, which cured her all right. I have also used it for old sores, frost bites and skin eruptions. It does the work." 25c, 50c and $1 bottles at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

Fulton, Ky., August 4—Mr. E. E. Hall, of Creston, Iowa, has arrived to become manager of Knights hotel. He had charge of the Blair hotel at Creston for several years.

OUTING SPOTS IN THE NORTHWEST

There are many places in the country of the Northern Pacific, some inexpensive, others better and more expensive, where one can spend the summer days pleasantly and healthfully. Among these are Walker in the Leech lake country, and Detroit and Battle Lake in the Lake Park region in Minnesota; Katon's ranch, near Medora, N. D.; Hunter's Hot Springs in the Yellowstone valley, and Missoula and the Bitter-root valley, in Montana; Lakes Paul d'Oreille and Cour d'Alene, Idaho; North Yakima in Eastern Washington, and Green River Hot Springs in the Cascades; Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Victoria on Puget Sound, and many places along the Columbia river and on the Pacific Ocean from Portland as a center.

Those east of the Mississippi who wish a decided change should go to the Rockies or the Puget Sound and Columbia river and sea coast country. We can only hint at these things here, but write us giving particulars as near as you can, and we will try to give you the needed information to enable you to find what you want. And don't forget that Yellowstone Park is the chief of all tourist shrines.

"I know you told me what he said about love and women in general, but I don't know as you said what he thought about women in particular. This here's a particular case. I tell you she's fixed 'im. Yore little sis has done the most complete job out o' tough material I ever inspected. the's a gone case; he'll never make another brag; he's tied hand an' foot."

Alan looked straight into his uncle's eyes. A light was breaking on him. "Uncle Ab," he said, "do you think he is—really in love with her?"

"Ef he ain't an' don't ax yore pa an' ma fer 'er before a month's gone, I'll deed you my farm. Now, look heer. A feller knows his own sister less'n he does anybody else; that's beca' he's never had thought o' Adele fellerin' in the trail o' womankind. You'd hate fer a brother o' that town gal to be raisin' sand about you, wouldn't you? Well, you go right on an' let them two kill their own rats."

Alan and his uncle were returning to the house when Pole Baker dismounted at the front gate and came into the yard.

"I seed Mr. Miller drive past my house while ago with Miss Adele," he said, "an' I come right over. I want to see all o' you together."

Just then Miller came out of the parlor and descended the steps to join them.

"Christmas gift, Mr. Miller," cried Pole. "I ketches you that time."

"And if I paid up yore debt esse me out," retorted the lawyer, with a laugh. "I haven't forgotten the row you raised about that suit o' clothes. Well, what's the news? How's your family?"

"About as common, Mr. Miller," said Pole. "My wife's gittin' younger an' younger ever day. Since she moved in 'er new house an' got to whitewashin' fences an' makin' flower beds an' one thing another she looks like a new person. I'd 'a' bought 'er a house long ago ef I'd knowed she wanted it that bad. Oh, we put on the lugs now! We wipe with napkins after eatin', an' my liltiest an' sets in a high chair an' says, 'Please pass the gravy,' like he'd been off to school. Sally says she's a goin' to send 'em, an' I don't keer ef they go; the'r noggin's look like squashes, but they're full o' seeds, an' don't you forget it."

"That they are!" intoned Abner Daniel.

"I've drapped onto a little news," said Pole. "You know what a old moon-shiner can't pick up in these mountains from old pads an' wuth lookin' fer."

"Railroad?" asked Miller interestedly.

"That's fer you uns to make out," said Baker. "Now, I ain't a goin' to give away my authority, but I rid twenty miles yesterday to substantiate what I heard, an' I know it's nothin' but the truth. You all know old Bobby Milburn's been buyin' timber land up about yore property, don't you?"

"I didn't know how much," answered Miller. "but I knew he had secured some."

"Just and last in the neighborhood o' six thousand acres," affirmed Pole, "an' he's still on the warpath. What first attracted my notice was findin' out that old Bobby hadn't a dollar to his name. That made me suspicious, an' I went to work to investigate."

"Good boy!" said Uncle Abner in an admiring undertone.

"Well, I found out he was usin' Wilson's money an' secretly buyin' fer him, an' what's more, he seems to have unlimited authority an' a big bank account to draw from."

There was a startled pause. It was broken by Miller, whose eyes were gleaming excitedly.

"It's blame good news," he said, eying Alan.

"Do you think so?" said Alnn, who was still under his cloud of displeasure with his friend.

"Yea, it simply means that Wilson intends to build that road. He's been quiet and pretending indifference for two reasons—first to bring us to closer terms, and next to secure more land. Then they all went to find Bishop to tell him the news."

CHAPTER XXVII.

It was a cold, dry day about the middle of January. They were killing hogs at the farm. Seven or eight negroes, men and women, had gathered from all about in the neighborhood to assist in the work and get the parts of the meat usually given away in payment for such services.

Abner Daniel and old man Bishop were superintending these preparations when Alan came from the house to say that Rayburn Miller had just ridden out to see them on business. "I think it's the railroad," Alan informed his father, who always displayed signs of almost childish excitement when the subject came up. They found Miller in the parlor being entertained by Adele, who immediately left the room on their arrival. They all sat down before the cheerful fire. Miller showed certain signs of embarrassment at first, but gradually threw them off and got down to the matter in hand quite with his old manner.

"I got a proposition to make to you, Mr. Bishop," he opened up, with a slight blush on his face. "I've been making some inquiries about Wilson, making some inquiries about Wilson, and I am more and more convinced that he intends to freeze us out—or, rather, by his doing of till you are obliged to sell your property for a much lower figure than you now ask him for it."

"You think so?" grunted "Bishop, pulling a long face.

"Yes. But what I now want to do is to show him indirectly that we are independent of him."

"Huh!" ejaculated Bishop, even more dejectedly. "Huh! I say!"

Alan was looking at Miller eagerly, as if trying to divine the point he was about to make. "I must confess," he smiled, "that I can't well see how we can show independence right now."

"Well, I think I see a way," said Miller, the flush stealing over his face again. "You see, there is no doubt that Wilson is on his high horse simply because he thinks he could call on you for that $25,000 and put you to some trouble raising it without—without, I say, throwing your hand on the market. I can't blame him," Miller went on, smiling, "for it's only what any business man would do who is out for profit, but we must not knuckle to him."

"Huh, huh!" Bishop grunted in deep despondency.

"How do you propose to get around the knuckling process?" asked Alan, who had caught the depression influencing his parent.

"I'd simply take up that note," said the lawyer. "You know under the contract we are privileged to pay it tomorrow if we wish. It would simply paralyze him. He's so confident that you can't take it up that he has not even written to ask if you want to renew it or not. Yes, he's confident that he'll rake in that security—so confident that he has been, as you know, secretly laying land near yours."

"But," exclaimed Alan, "Ray, you know we father has invested that money, and the truth is that he and mother have already had so much worry over the business that they would rather let the land go at what was raised on it than to—to run any more risks."

Bishop groaned out his approval of this elucidation of his condition and sat silently nodding his head. The very thought of further risks stunned and chilled him.

Miller's embarrassment now descended on him in full force.

"I was not thinking of having your father disturb his investments," he said. "The truth is, I have met with a little financial disappointment in a certain direction. For the last three months I have been raking and scraping among the dry bones of my investments to get up exactly $25,000 to secure a leading interest in a cotton mill at Darley of which I was to be president. I managed to get the money together, and only yesterday I learned that the northern capital that was to guarantee the thing was only in the corner of a fellow's eye up in Boston—a man that had not a dollar on earth. Well, there you are! I've $25,000 and no place to put it. I thought if you had just as soon owe me the money as Wilson that you'd really be doing me a favor to let me take up the note. You see, it would actually floor him. He means business, and this would show him that we are not asking any favors of him. In fact, I have an idea it would scare him out of his skin. He'd think we had another opportunity of selling. I'm dying to do this, and I hope you'll let me work it. Really I think you ought to consent. I'd never drive you to the wall and—well—he might."

All eyes were on the speaker. Bishop had the dazed expression of a bewildered man trying to believe in sudden good luck. Abner Daniel lowered his head and shook with low, subdued laughter.

"You are a jim dandy, young man," he said to Miller. "That's all there is about it. You take the rag off the bush. Oh, my Lord! They say in Alf's meeting house that it's a sin to play poker with no stakes, but Alf's in a game with half the earth put up agin another feller's wad as big as a bale o' hay. Play down, Alf. Play down. You've got a full hand an' plenty to draw from."

"We couldn't let you do this, Ray," expostulated Alan.

"But I assure you it is merely a matter of business with me," declared the lawyer. "You know I'm interested myself, and I believe we shall come out all right. I'm simply itching to do it."

Bishop's face was ablaze. The assurance that a wise young business man would consider a purchase of his of sufficient value to put a large amount of money on pleased him, banished his fears, thrilled him.

"If you feel that way," he said, smiling at the corners of his mouth, "go ahead. I don't know but what you are plumb right. It will show Wilson that we ain't beholden to him an' will set 'im to work ef anything will."

So it was finally settled, and no one seemed so well pleased with the arrangement as Miller himself. Adele entered the room with the air of one half fearful of intruding, and her three relatives quietly withdrew, leaving her to entertain the guest.

"I wonder what the matter with your brother," Miller remarked as his eyes followed Alan from the room.

"Oh, brother," laughed Adele. "No one tries to keep up with his whims and fancies."

"But, really," said Miller in a serious tone, "he has mystified me lately. I wonder if he has had bad news from Dolly. I've tried to get into a confidential chat with him several times of late, but he seems to get around it. Really, it seems to me at times that he treats me rather coldly."

"Oh if you waste time notin'g Al you'll become a beggar," And Adele gave another amused laugh. "Take my advice and let him alone."

"I almost believe you know what ails him," said Miller, eying her closely.

"I know what he thinks ails him," the girl responded.

"And won't you tell me what—what he thinks ails him?"

"No, I couldn't do that," answered our young lady, with a knowing smile.

"Ah," she said seriously, "if you could only do it!"

"If you are ever any wiser on the subject, you will have to get your wisdom from him."

She turned to the piano and began to arrange some scattered pieces of music, and he remained on the hearth, his back to the fire, his brow wrinkled in pensive perplexity.

"I'll have to get my wisdom from him," repeated Miller, pronouncing each word with separate distinctness, as if one of them might prove the key to the mystery.

"Yes, I should think two wise men could settle a little thing like that. If not, you may call in the third—you know there were three of you, according to the Bible."

"Oh, so there were," smiled Miller; "but it's hard to tell when we three shall meet again." The last time I saw the other two they were having their sandals half soled for a tramp across the desert. I came this way to build a railroad, and I believe I'm going to do it. That's linking ancient and modern times together with a coupling pin, isn't it?"

She came from the piano and stood by him, looking down into the fire.

"Ah," she said seriously, "if you could only do it!"

"Would you like it very much?"

"Very, very much. It means the world to us—to Alan, to father and mother and—yes, to me. I hunger for independence."

"Then it shall be done," he said fervently.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

As the elevator in the big building was taking Rayburn Miller up to the offices of the Southern Land and Timber company many reflections passed hurriedly through his mind.

"You are going to get the usual cold shoulder from Wilson," he mused, "but he'll put it up against something about as warm as he's touched in many a day. If you don't make him quirm, it will be only because you don't want to."

Wilson was busy at his desk looking over bills of lading, receipts and other papers and now and then giving instructions to a typewriter in the corner of the room.

"Ah, how are you, Miller?" he said indifferently, giving the caller his hand without rising. "Down to see the city again, eh?"

Rayburn leaned on the top of the desk and knocked the ashes from his cigar with the tip of his little finger.

"Partly that and partly business," he returned carelessly.

"Two birds, eh?"

"That's about it. I concluded you were not coming up our way soon, and so I decided to drop in on you."

"Yes; glad you did." Wilson glanced at the papers on his desk and frowned.

"Wish I had more time at my disposal. I'd run up to the club with you and show you my Kentucky thoroughbreds, but I really am rushed, today particularly."

"Oh, I haven't a bit of time to spare myself! I take the afternoon train home. The truth is I came to see you for my clients, the Bishops."

"Ah, I see." Wilson's face clouded over by some mechanical arrangement known only to himself. "Well, I can't really report any progress in that matter," he said. "All the company think Bishop's figures are away out of reason, and the truth is right now we are over head and ears in operations in other quarters, and—well, you see how it is?"

"Yes, I think I do," Miller smoked a moment. "In fact, I told my clients last month that the matter was not absorbing your attention, and so they gave up counting on you."

Wilson so far forgot his pose that he looked up in a startled sort of way and began to study Miller's smoke wrapped profile.

"You say they are not—have not been counting on my company to—to buy their land?"

"Why, no," said Miller in accents well resembling those of slow and genuine surprise. "Why, you have not shown the slightest interest in the matter since the day you made the loan, and naturally they ceased to think you wanted the land. The only reason I smiled was that the note is payable today, and—"

"Oh, yes, by Jove! That was careless of me. The interest is due. I knew it would be all right, and I had no idea you would bother to run down for that. Why, my boy, we could have drawn for it, you know."

Miller smiled inwardly as he looked calmly and fixedly through his smoke into the unsuspecting visage upturned to him.

"But the note itself is payable today," he said, closely on the alert for a facial collapse, "and, while you or I might take up a paper for $25,000 through a bank, old fashioned people like Mr. and Mrs. Bishop would feel safer to have it done by an agent. That's why I came."

Miller in silent satisfaction saw the face of his antagonist fall to pieces like an artificial flower suddenly shattered.

"Pay the note?" gasped Wilson.

"Why?"

Miller puffed at his cigar and gazed at his victim as if slightly surprised over the assumption that his clients had not all along intended to avail themselves of that condition in their contract.

"You mean that the Bishops are ready to?"—Wilson began again on another breath—"to pay us the $25,000?"

"And the interest for six months," quietly added Miller, reaching for a match on the desk. "I reckon you've got the note here. I don't want to miss my train."

Wilson was a good business man, but his Puritanical training in New England had not fitted him for wily diplomacy.

"Of course they can take up their note today if they wish," he said, with alarmed frankness. "It was not counting on it, though." He rose to his feet. Miller's watchful eye detected a certain trembling of his lower lip. He thrust his hands into his pockets nervously, and in a tone of open irritation he said to the young man at the typewriter: "Brown, I wish you'd let up on that infernal clicking. Sometimes I can stand it, and then again I can't. You can do those letters in the next room."

When the young man had gone out, carrying his machine, Wilson turned to Miller. "As I understand it, you personally have no interest in the Bishop property?"

"Oh, not a dollar," smiled the lawyer. "I'm only acting for them."

"Then—Wilson drove his hands into his pockets again—perhaps you wouldn't mind telling me if the Bishops are on trade with other parties. Are they?"

Miller smiled and shook his head. "As their lawyer, Mr. Wilson, I simply couldn't answer that question."

The blow was well directed, and it struck a vulnerable spot.

"I beg your pardon," Wilson stammered. "I did not mean to suggest that you would betray confidence," he reflected a moment, and then he said in a hurried tone. "They have not actually sold out, have they?"

Miller was silent for a moment, then he answered: "I don't see any reason why I may not answer that question. I don't think my clients would object to my saying that they have not yet accepted any offer."

A look of relief suffused itself over Wilson's broad face.

"Then they are still open to accept other offers to me?"

Miller laughed as if highly amused at the complication of the matter.

"They are bound, you remember, only so long as you hold their note."

"Then I tell you what to do," proposed Wilson. "Go back and tell them not to bother about payment for a few days, anyway, and that we will soon tell them positively whether we will pay their price or not. That's fair, isn't it?"

"It might seem so to a man personally interested in the deal," admitted Miller as the introduction to another of his blows from the shoulder, "but as lawyer for my clients I can only obey orders, like the boy who stood on the burning deck."

Wilson's face fell. The remote clicking of the typewriter seemed to grate upon his high wrought nerves, and he went and slammed the partly opened door, muttering something like an oath. On that slight journey, however, he caught an idea.

"Suppose you wire them my proposition and wait here for a reply," he suggested.

Miller frowned. "That would do no good," he said. "I'm sorry I can't explain fully, but the truth is this: I happen to know that they wish for reasons of their own to take up the note you hold and that nothing else will suit them."

At this juncture Wilson lost his grip on all self possession and degenerated into the sullen anger of sharp and unexpected disappointment.

TODAY'S LINE UP

FREEMAN WILL PITCH AGAINST PADUCAH THIS EVENING.

The Jackson boys arrived last night on the Fowler from Cairo and are anxious to test the strength of the local team since the new additions were made. They have met with some defeats within the past few days and think they will have a good thing with Paducah.

The Jackson lineup for today will be Butler, 1; Harley, 1; Behan, ss; Petit, c; Gaston, cf; Sherman, 2b; Accersini, b; Lednarr, rf; Freeman, p.

This will be the first time Freeman was ever seen against the Indians, the team that brought him first before the public as a professional pitcher.

Benke at first has won the admiration of the baseball public generally. He is said to be a better man than Hughes of Cairo. Benke has no fast style about him but has assisted in several fast double plays and is ever ready to take throws no matter how wild. Yesterday he had several difficult throws and pickups to make and accepted the chances without an error. The only error made by Benke since he has been here was credited to him yesterday when Gage in his haste threw a little wild and caused the first baseman to miff it. The error was really Gage's but had to be given to Benke.

Benke has not yet gotten his eye well on the ball. He had been batting well but seems to have fallen down a little of late.

Le Compte is the pet of the team. His hitting has been more than phenomenal of late.

Paducah's lineup will be the same as yesterday except Lloyd will go in the box again today. Lloyd was ill yesterday which accounted for the five hits the visitors got. Potts got ill yesterday and had to be relieved at second by Gage.

PLEASANT ANNIVERSARY.

FORMER FEDERAL OFFICIAL CELEBRATES NEAR MAYFIELD.

Yesterday's Mayfield Messenger says of Major G. W. Saunders, who became well known in Paducah as deputy United States marshal:

"Major G. W. Saunders was 54 years old Sunday and quite a number of his friends and relatives congregated at his country home to partake of the elegant dinner his wife had prepared. The day was very pleasantly spent and one of the major's little nephews after filling his stomach with the many good eatables remarked: 'If he would have another birthday next Sunday.' Everybody smiled and the boy's mother informed him that she would interview him when they got home."

RESIDENT OF MECHANICSHURG ESCAPES FROM CITY HALL.

Louis Wurtman, an aged resident of Mechanicsburg, was brought to the city hall yesterday afternoon late to be locked up for lunacy, but later in the evening got up and walked out of the hall and has not been seen by the police since.

Wurtman has been ill for some time and hot weather and his illness caused his mind to become affected and he became temporarily insane. He was taken to the county jail for safe keeping, but the jailer would not accept him on account of no mittimus being secured. It was then that he was returned to the city hall and walked out when no one was in the office to look after him. His case is mild and no danger is expected from his being loose.
